A wonderful collection of essays by Bengal's rebel poet, Kazi Nazrul Islam that unravel his ideas on politics, philosophy, and culture

Kazi Nazrul Islam (1899–1976) is widely remembered as the fiery iconoclast who fought against the structures of oppression and orthodoxy. The iconic 'rebel poet' of Bengal, Nazrul continues to be loved for his songs and poetry. But what of his prose, his journalism, and his politics? Selected Essays reveals to us the extraordinary versatility of Nazrul as an essayist. Addressing subjects as diverse as social reform, politics, communal harmony, environmental concerns, education, aesthetics, ethics, and philosophy, this rich collection showcases Nazrul's dynamic vision and unique use of language as an instrument of change. The essays chart his evolving consciousness as a thinker, writer and activist, offering vivid glimpses of the ethos of his times, his relationships with leading figures such as Tagore and Gandhi, and his active engagement with social, political and cultural processes.

RADHA CHAKRAVARTY is a writer, critic and translator as well as professor of comparative literature and translation studies at Ambedkar University, Delhi. She has co-edited The Essential Tagore, nominated Book of the Year 2011 by Martha Nussbaum for The New Statesman. ## How the US, UK turned to India to grapple with communist China in the Cold War era

The establishment of a communist regime in China upended western plans for the post-Second World War Asian order. As the US and the Great Britain grappled with the implications of this new China on their strategic and economic interests in the western Pacific, significant divergences also emerged. A newly independent India seeking to define its place and role in the region under conditions of Cold War was hopeful of enlisting China as partner.

This book outlines India's efforts to craft foreign policy in the context of Anglo-American competition in the Far East. The role of the towering personalities of that era—Nehru, Zhou Enlai, Truman, Eisenhower, Churchill—and the personal chemistry between them, is woven into the narrative to paint a mental picture of the nuts and bolts of Indian diplomacy during the early years.

VIJAY GOKHALE retired as foreign secretary in 2020. He is author of three previous books on China, including The Long Game: How the Chinese Negotiate with India.

The third book in the much-loved ‘Goddess’ trilogy, this one unravels Lakshmi, ‘the goddess who gives’

Treasures of Lakshmi is the culmination of the much-loved ‘Goddess’ trilogy, brilliantly curated and edited by Namita Gokhale and Malashri Lal. This trilogy, which began with In Search of Sita: Revisiting Mythology and continued with Finding Radha: The Quest for Love, examines the mystical realms of Hindu thought and practice, celebrating the essence of the sacred feminine. Both Sita and Radha, intriguingly, are embodiments of Lakshmi. Whether it is Lakshmi’s 108 names or a sahasranama of a thousand appellations, her blessings are multidimensional and eternal. As the third and final instalment of this remarkable trilogy, Treasures of Lakshmi takes readers on a unique journey of exploration, unravelling the compelling narrative of ‘the goddess who gives.’

NAMITA GOKHALE is the co-founder and co-director of the Jaipur Literature Festival. She has received numerous awards including the Sahitya Akademi Award for 2021, the First Centenary National Award for Literature in 2017 and the Nilimarani Sahitya Samman 2023.

MALASHRI LAL has been professor in the English department, and former dean, University of Delhi. She has published seventeen books, including The Law of the Threshold: Women Writers in Indian English, Tagore and the Feminine: A Journey in Translations and Chamba Achamba: Women’s Oral Culture.

BABUR

THE CHESSBOARD KING

Price Rs 999

A gripping biography of Babur

Chronicling his rise as the visionary founder of the Timurid Empire in Hindustan, this book immerses readers in the gripping non-fiction account of Babur's foundational years. Meticulously sourced from the Persian manuscript of the Baburnama, it vividly captures Babur's early struggles following his father's tragic demise in AD 1494.

Detailing Babur's unyielding pursuit of power amid treacherous political landscapes, the narrative unveils his moniker, 'the chessboard king,' portraying his adept navigation through political intricacies and adversities. From his ascent to rulership in Ferghana amidst familial threats to fleeting victories and losses in Samarkand, the book paints a poignant picture of Babur's journey. It portrays his retreat to tribal lands after relinquishing hopes of reclaiming Ferghana, eventually establishing a mountainous kingdom in Kabul, a pivotal milestone preceding his ambition to expand into Hindustan. Recounting his initial endeavour to penetrate Hindustan in AD 1505, his alliances, and subsequent setbacks after Sultan Husayn Mirza Bayqarah's demise, leaving him as the sole Timurid prince in power, the book opens a window to Babur's failed second attempt to enter Hindustan, encapsulating the initial thirteen to fourteen tumultuous years of his reign, marked by exile, fleeting victories, and delicate alliances.

AABHAS MALDAHIYAR is a practising architect and a well-known author and columnist.

The fascinating history of an exodus from India's coastlines during WWII

A narrative on a scarcely known slice of history when India was in a panic, believing (mistakenly) that Japan would launch a full-scale invasion. This was a period when the tongue of rumour about Japanese prowess and British weakness wagged wildly, and when there was a huge and largely unmapped exodus from the Indian coastline. The book shows how the events during this period shaped nationalist politics, British policy towards India and charted the course towards Independence.

MUKUND PADMANABHAN is the former editor of The Hindu and The Hindu BusinessLine. He is currently a Visiting Professor of Practice at Krea University, where he teaches Philosophy and related disciplines.

How the Indian State can deliver, explained!

As we reflect on seventy-five years of Indian Independence, building a more effective Indian state is the most important task ahead. Doing this will require us to understand:

- Why the Indian state does so poorly in delivering basic services?
- Why has democracy not made the state deliver better?
- How can we all contribute towards building a more effective Indian state?

The goal of this book is to offer tangible, evidence-based ideas that can actually help improve the functioning of the Indian state.

KARTHIK MURALIDHARAN is the Tata Chancellor's Professor of economics at the University of California, San Diego.

From the remarkable oeuvre of Mirza Ghalib, here are thirty of his forgotten verses

Mirza Asadullah Khan Ghalib was born in Agra in the closing years of the eighteenth century. Ghalib fascinates his readers for many reasons, but one of the most noted qualities in Ghalib was that he was a careful, even strict, editor of his work. It is said that he discarded or disregarded more than half of his Urdu verses. These verses were forgotten for long, until as late as 1918, in the library of the princely state of Bhopal. In 1921, they were edited and published as a new Divan-e Ghalib. In Flowers in a Mirror, Mehr Afshan Farooqi continues her research in the strain of her first book, A Wilderness at My Doorstep and examines Ghalib's approach to his work and the world in which he lived and composed.

MEHR AFSHAN FAROOQI is currently a professor of Urdu and South Asian literature at the University of Virginia. Her research publications address complex issues of Urdu literary culture, particularly in the context of modernity. She is also a well-known translator, anthologist and columnist. She has recently published Ghalib: A Wilderness at My Door Step, A Critical Biography (2021). Mehr expects to continue her work on Ghalib and is currently working on a memoir, A Book of Hearts.

Manav Kaul writes with rare candour and simplicity

Even when a woman gives birth to a man, how little a man understands her! Fluctuating between poetry and prose, questioning even the method of writing, Under the Night Jasmine, in a world that is layered and vivid, is a coming-of-age novel—a micro look at a man's world that both pushes back and fascinates.

Born in Baramulla, Kashmir, MANAV KAUL has been an integral part of the film world—acting, directing and writing—for the past twenty years.

VAIBHAV SHARMA is a poet and translator from India and is currently pursuing his MA in comparative literature from Delhi University.

The debut collection of renowned Dalit feminist writer, Anjali Kajal, and winner of the English PEN Translates Award

The stories in Anjali Kajal's debut collection draw us into the lives of ordinary women in Northern India, making us realize how rarely we witness these experiences from a Dalit point of view. Whether it is combating the caste-based disdain of colleagues at work or in the classroom, or enduring the new blows that the pandemic inflicted on the Dalit communities, Anjali's characters find a resilience and dignity that we can all learn from.

ANJALI KAJAL is a short-story writer from Ludhiana, Punjab. Her stories have been published in various literary magazines and publications, including the renowned Hindi monthly magazine Hans.

KAVITA BHANOT is the editor of The Book of Birmingham: A City in Short Fiction (2018) and Too Asian, Not Asian Enough (2011).

Startling, humorous and poignant stories by one of the pioneers of modern Hindi literature

Fearless, provocative and startlingly original, Nirala's prose writings, much like his poetry, greet the world around with the eyes of a compulsive satirist, committed to laying bare its hypocrisies. The Portrait of Love is an ode to Nirala's genius, drawing attention to his long-ignored legacy in prose.

'NIRALA' (1896–1961) was an editor, essayist, novelist and one of the architects of the Chhayawaad movement in Hindi poetry. His writings, alongside those of Premchand and Jaishankar Prasad, heralded the first major flowering of Hindi literature in the twentieth century.

GAUTAM CHOUBEY teaches English at Delhi University.

What if every single choice you were to make was governed by the state? A Black Mirror-esque narrative about the present

In an unnamed city in an unnamed country, Priyamvada (or Poppy) and Tariq are in love. In a few hours, Tariq is meant to propose to her. Things, however, unspool in ways neither of them anticipates. After a terrifying quarrel, Poppy finds herself conversing with a beautiful stranger, Yuvraj. Here the narrative splits in two: One segment follows all that does happen. The other segment approaches what-could-have-been-if-only.

DHARINI BHASKAR was the former editorial director of Simon and Schuster India and was one of five young Indian writers selected for Caravan's Writers of India Festival, Paris.

An astounding collection of poems that brings women mystics to the foreground.

These poems are the cries of women who refused, quietly, and sometimes not so quietly, to be bullied into submission. Women who surrendered not to the authority of the world, but to the authority of the spirit. Women whose words smell of danger and a fiery appetite for the sacred. Women whose voices are sanitized by the grand narratives of religion.

ARUNDHATHI SUBRAMANIAM is a poet and seeker though not always in that order. She has worked over the years as critic, poetry editor and curator.
